

CENIZA CHAIR

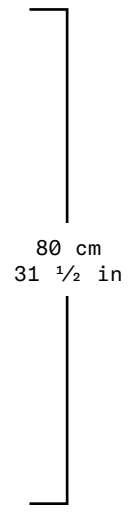

Carved by hand and assembled by a master cabinetmaker, the Ceniza Chair consists of three legs, a leather seat and an iconic backrest. Its wooden black leather upholstered seat is attached to the three legs using an ancient technique called Espiga Vista, which allows the joints to resist the heat of fire. Once assembled, the chair is burnt to eliminate all moisture and to seal the white oak wood, a process that gives the tonality and final texture to the piece.
